2. Citations and explanations (Rule 70.7)

This present invention relates to a bio-adhesive derived from mussel, and more particularly to a novel Mytilus galloprovincialis foot protein-5(MGFP-5) and a recombinant protein that is a hybrid of MGFP-5 and foot protein-1(FP-1).

The following documents have been considered for the purpose of this report:

D1: NCBI Accession No. AAS00463 (Feb. 01, 2004)

D2: US 5202236 (Apr. 13, 1993)

1. Novelty

Claims 1 and 10 describe an MGFP-5 gene and protein. The protein of the present invention are useful in enhancing plant tolerance to cold, salt or drought stress when the protein is overexpressed in the plant. However, document D1 discloses a foot protein-5 from Mytilus galloprovincialis which has the same sequence with the present invention. Therefore, the subject-matter of claims 1 and 10 is not considered to be novel under PCT Article 33(2).

2. Inventive Step

D1 provides the same sequence with claims 1 and 10 of the present invention. D2 discloses application of the techniques of recombinant DNA technology to the production of bioadhesives of the type produced by marine animals such as mussels, barnacles and oysters. In this present invention, a recombinant protein that is a hybrid of MGFP-5 and foot protein type 1(FP-1), and a method of producing an adhesive protein is not described in any of the prior art. Therefore, the subject-matter of claims 2-9 and 11-49 is considered to involve an inventive step under PCT Article 33(3).

3. Industrial Applicability

The subject-matter of claims 1-49 is considered to be industrially applicable under PCT Article 33(4).
